LOCATION

Called the Grand City of Michigan's West Coast, Grand Rapids is home to Spectrum Health Butterworth Hospital, the Fred and Lena Meijer Heart Center and the Lemmen-Holton Cancer Pavilion. Spectrum Health Blodgett Hospital is located in adjoining East Grand Rapids, childhood home of the late President Gerald R. Ford.

LIFESTYLE

The greater Grand Rapids area has a population of more than 1.3 million. Spectrum Health is the area's largest employer. In addition, several Fortune 1000 companies have headquarters in metro Grand Rapids. With average temperatures of 72 degrees in July and 22 degrees in January, Grand Rapids offers full four-season recreational opportunities. The arts and cultural community thrives in Grand Rapids with professional symphony, opera and ballet companies, as well as a 125-acre botanical garden and sculpture park.

HOSPITALS

With advanced treatments, leading technologies and skilled specialists, Spectrum Health is setting new standards in medicine and care. Its physicians are at the forefront of their field, with more than 85 percent of the clinical studies in Grand Rapids connected to Spectrum Health. Spectrum Health's cardiovascular, orthopaedics and oncology programs are among the largest programs in the state.

AWARDS

In the past 10 years, Spectrum Health has received more than 70 quality awards and was named one of the Leapfrog Top 50 Acute Care Hospitals in the U.S. It also is ranked among Verispan's Top 100 Integrated Healthcare Networks. Its vision is to be the nation's highest quality and most successful health enterprise by 2010. By applying its organizational values of compassion, excellence, innovation, integrity, respect, and teamwork, Spectrum Health can fulfill its mission to improve the health of the communities it serves.
