LOCATION

Mary Free Bed is located just off US-131 in Grand Rapids, Michigan. It is situated one hour north of Kalamazoo, one hour west of Lansing, and three hours from Chicago.

LIFESTYLE

Grand Rapids has many of the amenities and benefits of a large city while still retaining the feel of a smaller town. There is so much to do in and around Grand Rapids that you will never be bored. The city boasts of a lively downtown entertainment district that offers an abundance of night clubs, theaters and dining options. Other attractions include four outstanding museums, the Frederik Meijer Gardens & Sculpture Park, Van Andel Arena and much more. In addition, Grand Rapids is only one hour away from the beach in South Haven, perfect for a weekend at the lake.

HOSPITAL

As west Michigan's largest and most comprehensive provider of rehabilitation services, Mary Free Bed's services include: quality patient care for both inpatient and outpatient settings; rehabilitation research; education and training; assistive technology; and advocacy. Programs include: brain injury; spinal cord injury; stroke and orthopaedic; pediatric/adolescent, amputee, lymphedema, vestibular, rehab technology center, orthotics and prosthetics services. The hospital is accredited by JCAHO, the Rehab Accreditation Commission, and the Michigan Department of Community Health.

Mary Free Bed is proud to be the only rehabilitation hospital in Michigan offering the iBOT, a new kind of wheelchair which allows its users to go places and do things not possible with any other single mobility device. They also offer innovative programs not found elsewhere in the region: a Biofeedback Laboratory for Neuromuscular Re-education, Driver Rehabilitation, and the Motion Analysis Center.

At Mary Free Bed Rehabilitation Hospital, meeting the special needs of physical rehab patients is their singular expertise. They stretch their minds to provide treatment and therapies that help their patients come the farthest in the shortest possible time.
